Dear Gateways Friends,

It is with a hard-earned sense of accomplishment that we share the story of our work in 2020-2021 and the theme of this annual report, “Maintaining Connection, Maintaining Community.” Last year was one of the most challenging years in our history, where we juggled in-person and virtual offerings and determined our organizational strategic priorities in the face of enormous uncertainty during a global pandemic. Our ability to be nimble and generative has only strengthened as we continue to be called upon—now more than ever before—to meet the ongoing urgent need for professionalized support to help children and teens in our communities to access Jewish life and learning.

In the coming pages, you will read how we continued our services both in-person and online, providing direct supports for approximately 100 students across our local day schools; educating local and non-local students in our Sunday and B’nei Mitzvah programs; training a team of over 40 teen volunteers; and hosting professional development workshops for over 35 supplementary schools, afterschool programs, and early childhood centers in the Greater Boston area and beyond.

So how did we chart our course and decide on a strategic roadmap for the next three to five years during this challenging time? Even before the pandemic began, we focused on key questions about our future direction. The pandemic’s onset required significant adjustments to program delivery, internal processes, and ways of working with institutions, educators, students, families, and partners. These ongoing adjustments—along with more global shifts and trends in education, technology, philanthropy, and Jewish affiliation—all informed our current strategic planning process.
As we look to the future, we are proud to share the highlights of our newly adopted Strategic Plan, which was given a unanimous vote of approval by our Board of Trustees in June 2021. We are now redoubling our commitment to supporting systemic change—both locally, through our work in the Greater Boston area, and nationally, by sharing and championing best practices in inclusion. We are continually investing in the full educational ecosystem surrounding the children and teens we serve—including the leaders that set and drive culture—and their peers who are an integral element of lasting cultural change. We are expanding our focus to include both formal and informal Jewish education settings and are actively and intentionally seeking to strengthen connections, deepen relationships, and build intentional and strategic alliances with like-minded institutions and coalitions, both locally and nationally. Through these multi-pronged efforts, we are building our capacity to amplify the voices of children, teens, and families impacted by learning differences, disabilities, and mental health challenges.

We are committed to creating an inclusive Jewish community where all learners belong. Your partnership enables this vital work to continue. We remain very grateful for your ongoing support.

In partnership,

NORA FRIEDMAN & DARA GROSSMAN,

Moving the Needle on Mental Health

Your partnership is weaving mental health and wellbeing into the fabric of Jewish education throughout Greater Boston. Here’s how we’ve opened up a mental health dialogue in Jewish day schools this year:

- Communities of Practice
  - meeting weekly for mental health providers at day schools

- Bridge Programs
  - to support students at risk of mental health absence or hospitalization, piloted at two schools

- Educational Webinars
  - on topics in teen mental health and wellness

- Workshops & Trainings
  - for teachers at Greater Boston area day schools
Meeting Students Where They Are

Miriam Fein,
Gateways Learning Specialist

When you talk to Gateways Learning Specialist Miriam Fein, one fact is immediately, abundantly clear: she loves her work. A speech-language pathologist and a licensed reading specialist, Miriam meets regularly with students at Maimonides School who have language-related learning needs, collaborating with teachers and school support staff to give these students the tools to reach their potential and achieve success in the classroom. Without the support of educators like Miriam, these students would be at risk of leaving the Jewish day school community.

Miriam works hard to tailor her teaching to her students’ needs, and she credits the structure of Gateways with enabling her to deliver the right supports at the right time. “I love that Gateways gives me the opportunity to really try my best to meet the kids where they are. There isn’t a rigidity that you find in some other educational settings... there’s a certain level of flexibility in really focusing in on the kids’ specific needs and being able to tailor the support to that.”

During the 2020-21 school year, that flexibility was more necessary than ever as Miriam adjusted to delivering some sessions in person and others online. During this transition, her Gateways colleagues were there to provide her with a supportive network. “There’s still a sense of being a team even if we’re in different schools,” she explains.

Miriam is truly thankful for the Gateways supporters who give so generously to make her work possible: “Gateways really is a unique model and a real opportunity for students to get what they need and be more successful in their environment. And that is huge—the students themselves and their families are very appreciative.”

“Through Gateways’ day school services like the Slifka Initiative, we’ve been able to expand our integrated support services in our classrooms seamlessly, helping all of our students to shine.”

- BRIAN COHEN, Head of School, MetroWest Jewish Day School
“Gateways has been the most meaningful part of my high school experience. It has helped me grow as a person, as well as deepened my connections with those around me. I’ve learned valuable skills at Gateways that I know I will use for the rest of my life. I’m so, so thankful for this program!”

-SAMANTHA SHEPHERD, teen volunteer
Raising the Bar:
Raya’s Bat Mitzvah

Raya’s eyes twinkled from the bimah at Temple Sinai in Brookline, where her Gateways teachers and close relatives had gathered (with an additional hundred or so friends and family on Zoom) to celebrate her bat mitzvah. From watching as Raya proudly, skillfully read from the parsha, gave an instructive d’var Torah, and led everyone in song and prayer, you would never know that, only a year and a half earlier, her parents had worried none of it was possible.

“When we first came to Gateways in fall 2019, we had no idea that Raya would be capable of doing all that she did yesterday,” wrote Raya’s mom Robbie the next day. Raya’s bat mitzvah was the joyful culmination of all of her hard work and growth at Gateways’ B’nei Mitzvah Program. Teen volunteer Mira, who was paired up with Raya during her second year in the B’nei Mitzvah Program, recalls the day they first met: “I remember seeing her walk through the door…and having our first session together and thinking to myself ‘I don’t know how we’re going to do it,’ because she didn’t want to learn Hebrew, she didn’t really want to speak Torah, let alone leyn (chant) Torah in front of the entire class. She was just a nervous kid. She was super shy.”

However, with the support of volunteers like Mira and the Gateways staff and community, Raya flourished. Every time Raya’s teachers set her a new challenge, she not only met that challenge, she exceeded it. Raya’s parents noticed as she began to light up when recounting her B’nei Mitzvah Program sessions. These educators “changed Raya’s life,” said Robbie.

Mira and some of Raya’s other volunteers looked on proudly over Zoom on the day of her bat mitzvah. “It was such a special moment to me to see her open up like that. She was confident, she was strong, she spoke beautifully, she leyned beautifully,” said Mira. Robbie reflected, “This experience has been a lesson for all of us to keep raising the bar for her.”

“After yesterday, Raya has a newfound confidence that she will have for the rest of her life… We are overflowing with gratitude that Gateways exists and made it possible for her to achieve such a tremendous milestone.”

- ROBBIE, Raya’s mom
“The presenter was quite engaging and the presentation format was unique and strong. I really left having a much better feel of what I am doing and how I can improve to be better.”

– MICHAEL RAIZIN, Educator, Temple Tiferet Shalom

Accommodating Diverse Learners in the Religious School Classroom

Over 90 people listened on as Gateways presenter and behavioral specialist Mia Hyman described how visual schedules can help students with disabilities and diverse learning needs stay engaged both online and in person.

“One of the number one visuals we always encourage teachers to have in their classroom is a schedule... students can see that there’s light at the end of the tunnel in case there’s a subject or task that they’re not looking forward to, they can see that there’s something coming after it that they will enjoy...We always want to make it really predictable for the student, to decrease any sort of anxiety they’re having about what’s coming next.”

—MIA HYMAN, Gateways Behavioral Specialist

“Gateways’ Community of Practice has helped me immensely throughout the 2020–21 school year. To be able to share ideas with colleagues through such a difficult time when COVID was beginning really helped support our school....”

—EDYE KATZ, The Trust Center for Early Education (TCEE)
Virtual Sweet Sounds: Building an Inclusive Community

Even as Sweet Sounds 2020 went virtual—hosted by Joyce and Michael Bohnen and Ellie and Barry Shrage—you came together as a community to honor Gateways’ vision that every Jewish student, regardless of ability, will have access to quality Jewish education and the opportunity to participate meaningfully in Jewish life.
Everyone Has a Place

Interview with Jordana Bluestein, Gateways Board of Trustees

“It would have been so nice if there was something like Gateways around for my uncle.” This was the thought that Jordana Bluestein kept coming back to during her first Parenting with Purpose event, as she listened to Cindy Kaplan present about her daughter, Mira, who was born with cerebral palsy and had experienced a meaningful bat mitzvah because of Gateways. “I had an uncle who had cerebral palsy,” explains Jordana. “I remember during Jewish holidays my uncle and his wife really just kind of sat at the table – they never were able to participate. He was self-sufficient but there was definitely one aspect – his Judaism – that was never approached or addressed.”

Hearing Mira’s story inspired Jordana to get involved in Gateways: she joined the Parenting with Purpose Committee, and eventually the Board of Trustees. Above all, she says, being engaged with Gateways has kept her connected to her own vision of a community where everyone belongs and strives for mutual understanding.

“I truly believe in community, and that means everyone having a place and a role.”

“I think it’s essential that Gateways doesn’t just say ‘how can we teach these students their Hebrew or parsha or get them to the bar mitzvah?’ but also ‘how can we connect them to their community?’”

—JORDANA BLUESTEIN

A day school student works on an occupational therapy activity

During 2020-2021, Gateways connected with our Jewish Education Program students by holding individual remote sessions with each student, their teen volunteers, and a teacher.
It was really nice to hear your workshop and have access to your examples for helping the kids access the best possible learning they can during these trying times.”

IMAGINE AN EVEN Greater Impact

Get Involved

There are lots of ways you can help support Gateways further and ensure that more Jewish students have access to quality Jewish education and the opportunity to participate meaningfully in Jewish life.

www.jgateways.org

Donate Financially

Each time you make a gift to Gateways you open the gates to inclusion, welcoming a family in need into a lifelong community. Make your gift today at www.jgateways.org/donate.

Leave a Legacy of Inclusion

Your estate gift can change the lives of Jewish students and families for generations to come. To learn more about making a planned gift, connect with us at development@jgateways.org.

Stock Donations

When you make the choice to donate stock, you’ll not only change the lives of Gateways’ families and students, but you’ll also avoid paying a costly capital gains tax. Our staff is ready to help walk you through the process. To learn more, reach out to development@jgateways.org.

Our Teen Volunteers

What makes our Teen Volunteer Program stand out is not only the skillset volunteers gain, but also the relationships they build with students. If you know a Boston-area teen in grades 10–12 who is interested in a one-of-a-kind volunteer experience, please contact us at gtep@jgateways.org.

Get Involved with a Committee

Your time and talent are valuable assets! If you’re interested in donating your time, we’re very glad to have you join one of our committees. For more information or any questions, please reach out to info@jgateways.org.
